Economic Troubles.

Mr. Newell stated in an interview that the feeling back of the attack on him was largely due to economic troubles, over which the service could not exercise control. The present distribution of payments to the government, in some cases chained to work hardship on the settlers. Mr. Newell stated, is a matter ordered by law. He concluded that it was hard for the farmers to understand that be acted merely as a trustee of the vast government investments in reclamation work for the secretary of the interior.

Members of the Federation of Water Users' associations have decided to ask for a complete reorganization of the service. Officers of the federation say they believe the testi tony being given hefere secretary Lame justifies this recommendation.

Thinks Water Users Want.

"Hirry up and complete the reclamation projects already under way and be sure you have competent men in the field," was the advice James J. Hill, the railroad magnate gave to secretary Lane today at the hearing. He reiterated his statement that it cost the redamation service more than twice what it cost other services and private enterprises to reclaim the desert land.

This was brought up by a statement of senator Walsh that he had advised certain farmers on the Lower Vellowstone project to get judicial ruling on the reclamation act as to whether they could be required under this measure to pay the costs of the project as first estimated or the actual costs in which were included several abortive constructions of the government on this work. The actual costs, he stated, would probably spell ruln to the farmers on the project. Wanted Legal Rolling.

Mr. Culver, on the stand to present the complaints of those on the Sun

of "persecution" were employed by the service to collect money owing from the farmers, and also that the higher amounts which they have to pay to seclirs extension of time on payments amounted to "usury." He said that all the settlers on the Sun river project were badly off.

Mr. Blen, representing the service, put a series of questions to Mr. Culver in show that the chief cause of friction between the service and the farmers has been the inability of the farmers to say their instalments. He endeavored to show that remission of payments was general on the projects, and that cases of users being two, three and four payments in arrears were not infrequent.

Cost Keeps Increasing.

The citief compilant of the property holders in the Lower Yellowstone is that the first estimate of cost for the construction of the works was placed at $30 per acre, and it has grown until the farmers expect the final amouncement of cost to reach between $55 and $15 per acre. Mr. Hicks and Mr. Adams appeared for the water users of this project.

Linney's bill is for the submission to the people, at the next general election, of a constitutional amendment which will permit the voting of highway bonds. It was reported for passage by the senate committee of the whole. Chase, Kinney, Roberts, H. R. Wood and Cunniff voted to postpone it indefinitely.

The Brooks bill was for the issuance of $250,000 worth of bonds, the utmost allowed by the constitution as it now stands, for buildings at the university, and two normal schools. Had versity, and two normal schools. Had it passed, that amount would have been deducted from the general appropriation bill. But it was killed, le to 8, and the buildings will be paid for by direct tax.

Appropriation Bill.

With no material changes the general appropriation bill was reported for regular course. Several effects were made to cut out various items. The "farmers" won a signal victory when they defeated a movement, headed by Roberts, to eliminate the item of $30,000 for the purchase and equipment of an agricultural station in the Sait river valley.

Roberts also tried to cut the appropriation for the state fair by $20,000. As the bill stood it gave the fair $35. Appropriation Bill.
